La Mia

What's the strangest interview you've ever been on? Mine involved flippers and a massive dry-cleaning bill. To earn a few extra euros I had to pick up a side gig during my semester abroad along the western coast of Italy. They told me to wear a suit to the interview – so I put on my best three-piece and headed to the address. I didn't realize until I got there that they meant wet-suit. Probably should have thought about that considering it was for a snorkeling instructor. Still got the job.

FEATURES

La Mia Sometimes less is more. That's the approach behind the La Mia's design. It's sturdy metallic A-frame, plastic seat and back make it the perfect seat for any situation. Whether you're sitting down for an awkward interview or grabbing a seat to take off your snorkeling equipment, the La Mia has you covered. The perforated plastic back provides great air-flow when trying to stay cool when the day starts to heat up. When you're ready to get back to your swim – or job – you can easily stack the chairs and tuck them out of the way in a corner. It's also available in seven – yes I said seven colors. Told you less is more.
